QUITS FOR THE HOUSE

Hodge Will Not Seek Legislative Honors But Will Run for Superintendent

LOYAL TO LAKE COUNTY

He Believes That if Lake Has Too Many Candidates That McHenry County Will Carry off the Plumbs

From the Waukegan Gazette of Wednesday, July 13:

John Hodge of Antioch was in town today and was interviewed by a Gazette reporter in reference to his candidacy for the Legislature. Mr. Hodge said that he had never positively announced his candidacy for the Legislature, but that he had considered the wishes of his friends in every township of the county, both as to his candidacy for the Legislature, or as to his candidacy for superintendent of schools, that he had been over the county carefully, as he put it, "with a fine toothed comb"; that he had been in McHenry county and had made a number of friends there and in Boone county and after considering for some weeks and after hearing this morning from Woodstock that Speaker Shurtleff would again be a candidate for representative and that Attorney Lumley of McHenry county would oppose him, he had determined not to seek at this time the office of member of the Legislature.

Mr. Hodge believes that if he is a candidate along with Mr. Stearns, the present incumbent, and others who may come into the race, that the candidacy of the two candidates from McHenry county will carry with them largely the support of Boone county and if Lake county is divided up that the chances would be that Lake county would get the same kind of a deal from McHenry and Boone counties which they received in the late fight from Hon. Chas. Whitney for judge, that is that they would combine against Lake county and not only would they have the senator, which they now have, but they would get both representatives and Lake county would get nothing.

Mr. Hodge has always been a Lake county man and all of his interests are in Lake county and he wishes to stand by Lake county, and after having canvassed the situation over carefully it is his opinion that the people of Lake county believe by a large majority that the present incumbent or the choice of the people should be re-elected for reasons with which everybody is familiar.

Mr. Hodge says that he has long been conversant with the schools of Lake county, that he has been a teacher in the Lake county schools for 14 years and teat he believes that there are a number of improvements which should be made with the present school system, that the county of Lake is behind many counties in Illinois in modern school methods, there being too many fads and too few facts made prominent in our public school curiculum and the hard headed business man is not getting what he has paid for in the public schools today. It is a well known fact by the people who are cognizant of the conditions that the book trusts have had too much to do with dictating as to what books should be used in the local schools and it is high time that the best rather than the book published by them, which are sometimes not the best, should be adopted.

Mr. Hodge further stated that he had personally consulted in the different townships with over 200 prominent citizens and had heard from many more. Mr. Hodge has, therefore, decided and today ordered his petitious, which will be circulated at once, as a candidate for superintendent of schools.

Eagle Made Things Lively.

J. E. Martin, a forest ranger of Buena Vista, Cal., was attacked by an eagle the other afternoon while riding down the mountain side, and, being unarmed, was compelled finally to seek protection among some thick bushes. The big bird circled about him several times and darted down upon his head, tearing his scalp and lacerating his face.

METHODS INVESTIGATED

F. S. Webb of Chicago Demands Investigation of Woodmen.

An examination of the Modern Woodmen of America, with more than $1,000,000 members holding certificates calling for the ultimate payment of more than $1,000,000,000, has been requested from the state insurance department by F. S. Webb of Chicago, a member of the society since 1885 and for several years manager of the advertising department of its monthly journal.

Webb charges, in effect, that various officers of the society, and particularly F. O. Van Galder, editor of its monthly journal, withheld from the insurance examiner in 1906 and 1907 Webb's itemized monthly statements of the advestising business done, and in their stead furnished "false and misleading statements," by which the insurance department was deceived and induced to direct at Webb its criticisms of certain methods then censured.

Webb says that he was made the scapegoat for offenses of others, of which he was entirely innocent. He asks from the insurance department a vindication from the censures it passed upon him in 1906 and 1907. As a member of the society he also asks, in the interest of the members, an investigation that will go to the bottom of the uses made of the advertising income from the society's monthly journal by certain of its officers, and of certain expenditures by the management, in connection with which he intimates that he has reason to believe there has been extensive malversation of funds.

DIES FROM OPERATION

E. L. Gerry of Millburn Broke Leg and Amputation Results in Blood Poison

Sunday at his home east of Milburn occurred the death of E. L. Gerry, a well known farmer, his death being due to blood poisoning which developed following the amputation of his leg following a fall from his barn.

The fatality was a most unfortunate one, the circumstances being such as to show that it was a most unusual thing which brought about his death. On Tuesday Gerry was standing on his barn when a bolt of lightning struck his silo, a short distance away. The shock hit Gerry and threw him to the ground, 20 feet below. His leg was broken and on Saturday it was decided that an amputation was necessary. Drs. Jemison and Palmer performed the operation, which, for a time appeared to indicate he would get on all right. Later, however, complications set in and he grew worse and died Sunday. He leaves a widow, two brothers in Waukegan and other relatives, and two children, Claude aged 8 and Verne aged 5.

The late Mr. Gerry bore the highest of reputations as a man of lofty character and innate goodness and his death is the cause of wide mourning.

REASON FOR THE SLOW TIME

Irritable Traveler May Not Have Been Convinced but He had to Be Reconciled.

The trains on the branch road never went very fast. There were various reasons for this, all good ones. Nevertheless, travelers from more populous districts sometimes expressed forcible opinions on the subject. Silas Wetmore, who rode back and forth to and from the junction almost every day, took it upon himself to pacify such as were unduly disturbed by the waits and stops of the little sawed-off string of cars.

One day a particularly irritable passenger sat next to him. He not only complained that the train was slow but wished to know why it was slow.

"What are we stopping for now?" he asked.

Silas looked out of the window.

"This is a station," he said, mildly.

"Don't see any," said the other.

"Oh, there isn't any building," said Silas; "but it's a stopping place."

By and by the train went on. Presently it stopped, apparently in the middle of a field. This time the stranger did not inquire into the reason for halting. But after another 20 minutes the same thing occurred. Finally he broke out again:

"What are we stopping here for? Isn't any station here, is they?"

"No station," said Silas. "We're stopping for water."

"Water!" exclaimed the other. "Water! Why, we just took in water not five minutes ago. What do you mean?"

"Boiler leaks," said Silas, patiently; and the other relapsed into silence.—Youth's Companion.

ZION TO FALL AS JERICHO

Voliva's Forces Plan to March Seven Times Around Zion City for Success

ZION CITY TO BE SOLD

"Civil War iu Zion, if Voliva's Offer is Accepted," Says Zion City Independent Faction

"If Voliva wins in Zion, there will be a civil war in Zion City next week," said an independent Wednesday morning.

"In my mind, he continued, "tomorrow is the most important day for Zion affairs since the death of John Alexander himself. Voliva is making great boasts of what he is to do when the city falls into his hands, but the independents are confident today as ever that his offer will not be accepted but that Zion will be left free.

But even should he win he overlooks the fact that we now have the control of the city council.

He promises to make it so hot for us that we will all move, and he claims to have large parties or Australian followers ready to purchase our homes, or rather to step into the homes, that he claims that we will desert before his wrath.

He is planning a great demonstration the latter part of this week or the first of next. This is to be copied on the fall of Jericho, all of the Voliva faction planning to turn out for a great procession, which will march seven times around the city. On the last lap he prophesies that the city will 'fall' before him and he will enter it as supreme ruler.

Confident of success he is even now offering immunity and salvation to the independents who join him now.

But he has another guess coming, concluded the Independent".

Both sides are confident of an outcome satisfactory to themselves when the decision is rendered. And each side is firm in their belief that the city will not be big enough to hold the loser.

WAUKEGAN YOUTH DIES OF LOCK JAW RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Walter Dewenus, 20 years old, 915 Market street, a Lithuanian, died at the Jane McAlister hospital Sunday morning a 6:30 o'clock of lockjaw, said to have resulted by an injury received two weeks ago while in the employ of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroad as a section hand.

Dewenus with several other men, according to report, was helping to carry a heavy rail. In some manner this is said to have dropped upon his hand, mangling that member quite badly.

He was removed to his home on Market street and a physician summoned. The wound was attended to and apparently the injured man was getting along all right.

Last Friday night the Larson and Conrad ambulance removed him to the hospital. Physicians declared him to be suffering with a bad case of lockjaw. Everything possible was done to cure the disease but in vain. The man's teeth remained firmly locked until his death which occurred Sunday.

Be Careful.

If you have reached the place in your life where the commonness of word, action or thought does not disturb you. If mediocrity of purpose and accomplishment be all that satisfies you. When you can work in surroundings totally lacking in law or order without trying to remedy the defects. If work poorly done does not trouble you in the sharp haunting way of other days. When you do not expect refinement, sincerity or truth from your friends, for that means a laxity in self-requirements. When deep down in your heart there is no striving for an ideal. If you scorn the contempt or admiration of other broad minded individuals. For these are a few signs of a pitiable deterioration of character, and absolutely mark the failure of an individual to carry on the forward movement of the race.

Troublesome.

NEARLY LOSES HIS LIFE

Roy Wells Sinks in Druce's Lake But Harry Keefe Rescues Him

RISES FOR THE LAST TIME

Waukegan Episcopal Sunday Schooi Picnic is Nearly Marred by Drowning Tragedy on Tuesday

There came near being a tragedy at the annual picnic of the Episcopal Sunday School at Druce's Lake Tuesday, and but for the care shown by the older ones who went along expressely for the purpose of looking after the youngsters it might have ended seriously.

Little Roy Wells, the nine-years old son of Dave Wells of Yeoman Place Waukegan, was in swimming with other youngsters, and was out on a raft which had drifted out to a deeper point than either he or the others realized. He slipped off the board and found that he was in water over his head.

The little fellow went under the water twice before the others saw him and then Harry Keefe made for him and caught him just as he came up the second time. He grabbed, him, and while it was not over Keefe's head the little fellow might have been drowned had not the older boys been watching the little ones.

Young Wells insisted that he had not had a close call and that he would have come out all right, but the others declare that if Keefe had not been close at hand the affair would probably have been fatal.

The picnic proved a delightful event over one hundred being present including seventy-five members of the school.

The picnicers spent a most enjoyable day with games and various amusements. Not even the narrow escape of young Wells marred the pleasure of the day for the matter was kept quiet and very few heard of it at the lake.

WALTER THOMPSON KILLED BY TRAIN ON SOO LINE

The saddest death in Lake county took place at Rollins Friday night when Walter Thompson of that village was killed in some manner on the Soo line.

Thompson had been sent to Grayslake to get butter for his mother and buying a ticket took the milk train home. Within a few feet of his own station he either tried to jump off or in looking for his brother, who was to meet him, in some manner lost his ballance and fell. When picked up it was found that in his fall he had struck a bolt in a neighboring frieght car and the top of his head had been torn off. The boy was only 12 years old.

The Thompsons reside on what is known as the Doolittle place which they purchased recently, coming out from Chicago to make their home upon it.

The boy lived for an hour and a half and during that time held the butter package tightly in his arms.

ORDERED FROM CHURCH

Mormon Elders Seek to Pass Out Derogatory Literature Forced Off Property

Two Mormon elders who had started to distribute literature derogatory to Hans P. Freece, who spoke at the First Baptist church, Waukegan, Sunday evening, were ordered away by two of the church trustees. Their unwillingness to leave made it appear for a time that there might be some little trouble but they finally thought better of the matter and stood just outside the church property and continued to hand out their literature.

Mr. Freece, who was born a Mormon and reared in that faith, severed his connection with that church some time ago and affiliated with the Presbyterian church. He is a noted chautauqua lecturer and has been most favorably commented upon.

He gave a talk in the First Baptist church Sunday evening in which he exposed the inner working of Mormonism, telling what had induced him to give up that faith. Having been a Mormon himself his address had much more force and gave Waukegan people one of their first opportunities to learn of the creed that has been the cause of starting a national movement.

The Mormon elders who have been conducting services in the city for the past week, learned that he was to speak Sunday evening and when the congregation started to file out of the church they stood at the door and began to pass out leaflets containing a reprint article from a Mormon paper in which Mr. Freece is denounced quite bitterly.

Robert Smart and Lyman West, two of the church trustees, ordered the men off the church property. The elders seemed loath to go but finally inquired how far the property extended and when told stood just outside, passing out their leaflets to all who would accept them.

BOY DIES FROW LOCKJAW

George Panter of Lake Zurich First to Die From Insane Fourth

George Panter, aged 15, the son of former parents residing between Barrington and Lake Zurich, is the first and probably the only death victim of the "insane" Fourth.

Young Panter had a toy pistol on the Fourth and in some manner powder lodged in his hand which was torn by the explosion prematurely. He felt no ill effects at first but when ordered by his father to do chores said he was sick and could not. He said his finger hurt. The father poured some peroxide of hydrogen into the wound and it seemed to be better.

Sunday while on a ride with an older brother young Panter was again taken ill and Monday when he arosed after sleeping well all night his jaws were partly rigid. That morning at seven he died. There are six children in the family. He was several times asked to go to a doctor but always refused on the plea that he was not in a serious state. The doctor was called for the first time Monday. The Panters moved into the county from Chicago about a year ago.

PRESERVING HEALTH OF CHILD

Possible to Avoid the Ordinary Infantile Diseases, That Have Been Considered Necessary.

The idea prevails among many people that children must have the ordinary diseases of childhood, and that it is better to expose them early in life so as to get through with them as soon as possible. It is an old-fashioned belief, and the object today is to protect children from infection instead of exposing them to it. As children are more susceptible to variations in temperature than adults, so are they also more apt to contract certain diseases. The surest way to protect them against infection is not to expose them. This is extremely difficult where there are large gatherings of children, such as at public schools or in thickly populated districts, but if the health of a child is maintained by pursuing proper hygienic measures as to food, bathing, sleep, fresh air, and sunshine it is safe to say that it runs a small risk of contracting one of the infectious diseases, even when exposed to it. We should strive to develop the tissues of the body by proper modes of living to such a degree that exposure to unfavorable conditions will be met with resistance.

FIRST AID TO DROWNED

Valuable and Timely Hints for Restoring Those Who Have Been Drowned

DO NOT GIVE UP TOO SOON

Secretary Egan of State Board of Health Issues Instructions on How to Treat Bodies Just Taken From Water

Valuable and timely instructions for restoring the apparently drowned have been issued by Dr. James A. Egan, secretary of the state board of health as follows:

Avoid delay, a moment's delay and success may be impossible. Send for a physician if possible but don't await his coming. Get to work at once. Begin your work as soon as the body is taken out of the water and on the spot. Get busy and endeavor to start the breathing at once.

Remove all obstruction to the breathing, cut the clothing at the neck and wrists, but don't remove the wet clothing. Give the patient plenty of fresh air. Prevent crowding around him.

Endeavor to restore breathing in the following manner:

Instantly turn the patient downwards with a large firm roll of clothing under stomach and chest, place one arm under forehead so as to keep the mouth off the ground, press very heavily two or three times upon the patient's back so that the water will drain freely out of the mouth, then quickly turn patient face upwards with roll of clothing under back, just below shoulder blades and allow the deak to hang back as far as possible. Place patient's hands above head. Kneel with patient's hips between your knees and fix your elbows against your hips, grasp the lower part of the patient's chest squeeze his two sides together pressing gradually forward with all your weight for about three seconds, then with a push suddenly jerk yourself back. Rest about three seconds then begin again, repeating these bellow blowing movements with perfect regularity, so that foul air may be passed out and pure air be drawn into the lungs about eight or ten times a minute until the prtient breathes naturally.

Be careful not to interrupt the first natural breaths, if they are far apart carefully continue between them.

After the breathing commences the patient shonld be taken to warmth and shelter. He should be rubbed dry and wrapped in dry clothing, be sure to warm the body or convulsions may follow.

Do not give up to soon, You are working for life. Any time within two hours you may be on the very threshhold of success without there being any sign of it.

PARALYSIS IS CAUSE OF DEATH

At an early hour this (Thursday) morning occurred the death of Mrs. Barbara Adams, at the age of seventy-five years, at the home of her daughter Mrs. Howard Hadlock.

Her illness which has extended over a period of many weeks was due to paralysis and her death was not unexpected,

She was born in Canada, but for many years her home was at Elgin, Ill. Her husband preceeded her in death ten years ago and since that time she has made her home with her daughter at this place.

She has been a most patient sufferer and through all her illness has displayed an unusual amount of fortitude and christian forbearance.

She is survived by her daughter with whom she lived and one son of Milwaukee, Wis., besides grand children and many other relatives and friends.

As we go to press the funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

The News joins with their friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

An Heir to Millions

SYNOPSIS.

Andy Meleen, aged millionaire miner, is dying and orders a will drawn up, leaving all his property to the son of a sister of whom he has heard nothing for years, and whose married name he does not know. Meleen was married years before, but left his wife after a quarrel in which he struck her. He learned later that she and their daughter were dead. The scene shifts to New York, introducing Wilfrid Stennis, who is telling his fiancee, Eunice Trevecca, what he would do if he were the possessor of wealth. In the law office of Carboy, Passavant & Cozine, attorneys for the estate of Meleen, Roger Hews reports the result of his search for heirs of Meleen. He conceals the fact that he has discovered that Meleen's daughter is living. Wilfrid Stennis replies to an advertisement for information concerning his dead mother, Martha Meleen, and is told that he is the heir to Andy Meleen's millions. He wants to marry Eunice at once, but she resolutely demurs. He meets Clara Passavant, frivolous daughter of his attorney. Eunice becomes jealous of Wilfrid's attentions to Clara. He builds a yacht and starts on a trip abroad, the Passavants being included in the party. Roger Hews, having discovered that Eunice Trevecca is the daughter of Andy Meleen, plans to use the information to his own advantage. He proposes to Eunice and is rejected. Jaded after two years of gaiety in Europe, Wilfrid returns and immediately calls on Eunice. His attempts to renew his former relations with her meet with no encouragement.

CHAPTER VIII.

One morning in the early fall, a few weeks after the return of Stennis from abroad, Roger Hews called at his rooms bearing a letter of introduction from Horatio Passavant. It ran:

My Dear Mr. Stennis: This will commend to your consideration Mr. Roger Hews, who prefers to do his own explaining as to the object of his waiting upon you. I am requested to say, however—and it gives me great pleasure to do so—that Mr. Hews has upon more than one occasion acquitted himself intelligently and faithfully in matters of moment entrusted to him by this firm, and I believe him to merit the utmost confidence.

Most truly yours,
HORATIO PASSAVANT.

"What can I do for you, Mr. Hews?" inquired Stennis genially, dragging a chair forward.

"I understand that your secretary is about to leave you, Mr. Stennis, and I venture to make application for the post. It occurred to me that a personal call would be more satisfactory all around. I hope I'm not too late?"

"On the contrary, you are the first in the field. How did you know that there was to be a vacancy?"

"From Mr. Passavant."

"I see," said Wilfrid. "It was through him that Mr. Jocelyn came to me three years ago; if he sends me as good a man this time, I shall not complain."

Hews bowed. In dress and deportment—the former severely business-like, the latter quiet and sedate—he seemed outwardly all that could be desired.

Stennis turned to the letter of recommendation, slightly at a loss what to say next. This man was evidently some years older than himself, and no doubt eminently respectable.

Despite his experience of the respect and deference everywhere elicited by his wealth and social standing, Stennis had never quite gotten over a slight feeling of embarrassment and shamefacedness when dealing with those of his fellowmen who might in any sense be considered as dependents. An acute observer would have said that this hang-dog trait was convincing proof that he had not been born to the purple. Your titled Englishman, for instance, has no compunction or hesitation in ordering his servants around; they are to him, and always have been, simply so much furniture.

"I suppose I ought to ask you some questions, Mr. Hews," said Stennis, with a whimsical but engaging little smile, "but for the life of me I don't know where to begin."

"I am entirely at your service," murmured the irreproachable Hews, who was on his good behavior.

"Well—er—what experience have you had? I presume that's a fair inquiry?" said Winfrid tentatively.

"Oh, certainly, Mr. Stennis. To be frank with you, I have never occupied exactly the position of a private secretary, but I have been employed at various times in a confidential capacity by several men of affairs, and the firm of Carboy, Passavant & Cozine has also used me in some delicate matters. I may say without hesitation that I am thoroughly familiar with the duties of such a place."

Wilfrid nodded. "Mr. Passavant transacts all my weightier business, you know; you would look after my private correspondence, keep me posted as to social engagements, go through the begging letters—there's a devil of a lot of them, I can assure you—purchase supplies, and pay the bills.

"I understand," said Hews confidently.

"Then there's the new house; there's a confounded amount of petty detail connected with that which will fall to you."

Hews waved his hand with a gesture of complete assurance. "Give yourself no uneasiness, Mr. Stennis. I believe I can do all these things to your satisfaction."

"Well," said Wilfrid impulsively, "I rather like you, Mr. Hews, and I don't see why we shouldn't suit each other. I'll talk it over with Passavant and let you know."

"Very good, sir," said Roger, rising to go, hat in hand. "There is one thing I should prefer you to hear from me direct—Mr. Passavant will probably mention it: Although a stranger to you personally, I know something about your affairs, for I was the man sent to Pennsylvania by Mr. Carboy to verify certain facts connected with your late uncle's early life."

"The devil you were!" exclaimed Stennis, looking at Hews with accrued interest. Then, after a moment's reflection, he continued:

"I don't see why that should make any difference, do you?"

"Not at all," was the reply. "I should serve you none the less faithfully, Mr. Stennis."

"All right," assented the latter. "I'll let your hear from me one way or the other, Mr. Hews."

Hews bowed, and had his hand on the doorknob when Wilfrid said:

"By the way, it just occurs to me: Mr. Jocelyn is leaving because he is going to get married. I hate these changes, anyway. Pardon me—but have you—er—er—any similar intentions, Mr. Hews? It's none of my business, perhaps?"

For an instant the astute Roger half suspected some hidden or covert meaning in this sudden question; but a glance at Wilfrid's quite tranquil countenance quickly dispelled the idea. It was merely a chance shot. With a grave smile he answered:

"Not the slightest!"

As he descended in the elevator he reflected that Stennis was not likely to hear any tell-tale contradictions of this statement from Eunice Trevecca, and even a better man than Roger Hews could have justified the misleading answer by appealing to the reply made by Sir Philip Francis when asked point-blank if he had penned certain notorious letters: "If I had, you know, I should certainly say I had not!"

A variety of motives impelled the schemer to take this plunge into the enemy's country.

First and foremost was the feeling that by being on the spot he would be able to keep in touch with the property he had almost come to regard as his own.

Then, too, he fancied that the coveted position would enable him to detect any signs of renewed tenderness between Wilfrid and Eunice; while equally, of course, if Stennis were contemplating any other union matrimonial he would know of that.

She Dashed Off the Address.

In fact, by this move, should it prove successful, his position would be like that of a man in the center of a seesaw plank; he could depress or elevate either end at will.

Roger Hews was one of those men to whom power, or the knowledge of power, is inexpressibly sweet. The assurance that he held his unsuspecting adversary in the hollow of his hand, that if he chose he could at any time oust him from his high estate in half a dozen words, was to him meat and drink.

In less than a week he received a note from Stennis definitely engaging him, and requesting that he begin his new duties forthwith. So Roger Hews took up his residence at "The Albany," and speedily became adept in his work, as well as possessed of most of his employer's little secrets.

The winter came and went without bringing much change in the outward relations of the chief personages of this tale. The walls of the new mansion on Riverside were steadily rising, and the envious heart of Roger Hews was made sick at the thought of the enormous sums that were being lavished thereon.

"Confound him!" he growled in his gizzard a dozen times a day. "He little thinks whose money is being squandered! I'll give him a little more rope, and then—"

For Hews had come to hate Wilfrid with a blind, unreasoning hatred which, in a less cold-blooded man, would have endangered by precipitancy his ultimate plans and plots. Strange to say, the unconscious Wilfrid rather liked his taciturn and methodical secretary.

"He's a perfect gourmand for work," said the young Croesus one day to Mr. Passavant; "I can't find him enough to do."

But Roger was busy in his own fernet-like way. That Eunice Trevecca was secretly pining her heart away for Wilfrid Stennis became perfectly clear to Hews the unsuccessful. Since the former's return the girl had grown perceptibly thinner and paler, her step had lost its pretty quickness, her manner lacked its old-time buoyancy and sprightliness.

The certainty that his diagnosis was right fairly infuriated the rival suitor. Originally he had approached the girl in a spirit of sordid speculation, with only the counterfeit pretence of love upon his lips. But as the womanly sweetness and the unattainable nature of the prize became apparent, so did his feelings change, and he who came to barter with a woman's heart remained to beg for a kindly glance, to yearn for a word that might give him hope. For Hews was deeply, passionately smitten with Eunice Trevecca. To such a pass had it come with him that to win her he would have been willing to forego the golden fruit of all his plottings and schemings.

Again and again did he try to approach the forbidden topic of his love, but always with the same quiet avoidance of it on her part. He had promised to respect her wishes, but the floodgates of passion were at length overflowed, and he resolved to know his fate once and for all.

To help his cause somewhat he sent Eunice anonymously a marked copy of a society paper which authoritatively announced the engagement of Clara Passavant and Wilfrid Stennis, with the added intelligence that the wedding would take place at Easter. This time there was no mistake—the gossips were right.

On various occasions throughout the winter Wilfrid had tried to see Eunice—sometimes successfully, but more often failing—in a sincere endeavor and desire to renew their old footing. But the girl met his advances with such coldness and palpable indifference that at length he came to the sorrowful conclusion that she was hopelessly offended with him.

Then, and then only, did he put the momentous question to the daughter of the house of Passavant, and was at once accepted. She had been ready to yield months ago; in her inmost heart she wondered why the man had hesitated so long.

When Eunice received the paper which Hews so thoughtfully sent she happened to be alone. She could not help seeing the paragraph, encircled as it was with broad blue pencil marks. As she took in the sense of the printed lines her lip curled scornfully, as she said, half-aloud:

"I hope she is satisfied now!"

Quite on the impulse of the moment she ran to her little desk—one of Will's keepsakes — and rapidly penned this note:

Dear Mr. Stennis: Some kind friend has just sent me a copy of the Home Journal containing the announcement of your engagement and forthcoming marriage. As one of your oldest friends I want to be among the first to congratulate you, and to offer my sincerest wishes for your lasting happiness.

Cordially yours,
EUNICE TREVECCA.

She dashed off the address, and with her own hands posted it forthwith at the box on the corner. Then she ascended slowly to her room, locked the door, and had what women call "a good cry." But when old John came home that night she was able to tell him the news with complete composure, save for a tiny dash of red in either cheek.

"Eh, lass," he said, getting up from his chair, going to her side at the other end of the table, and taking her face between his horny hands, "thou'st gotten tha' dose, but doan't 'ee fret; tha' ither 'ooman has na' landed 'im yet, an' she will na'." He sealed the words with a hearty, compassionate kiss, and went heavily back to his seat, chuckling to himself. But Eunice shook her head hopelessly.

"It's all the fault of that horrid money, father," she said.

"There's nowt ta matter wi' th' lad, girlie; niver forget that. He'll win oot!" affirmed the old man, emphasizing his opinion with his knife and fork in the air.

"I wish I could think so," sighed Eunice, smiling wanly, "but it's no use; he will never come back to us now—it has gone too far!" And so it seemed, for with his engagement to Miss Passavant openly announced it looked as if Wilf were indeed irrevocably lost. Then her pride came to her rescue, and with some attempt at abandon Eunice exclaimed:

"I don't care! I sent him my congratulations today!"

"Did 'ee, now! That was plucky of 'ee," was her father's sententious answer.

The Latest Air.

"I'm looking for a breezy march," said the bandmaster in a Chestnut street music store the other day.

"How about this one dedicated to the Aero club?" the facetious clerk asked.

"I suppose it is written for wind instruments," the bandmaster countered.

"Well, the air is easy," the clerk shot back, and the interchange stopped.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

LIKE CRUDE SIGNS

Reason for Misspelled and Poorly Printed Ads.

Men of Education in City's Foreign Quarter Purposely Make Signs Ridiculous to Hold Their Trade.

Indianapolis.—Most of the advertising signs in the foreign sections of the city present many humorous phases of business activities. They are inartistic, in bad taste, and seem to display a generous amount of ignorance or carelessness—but such is not the case.

Investigation has disclosed the fact that those signs, at least most of them, serve as business getters. They are the mediums which bring and hold the foreigners together, and they attract hundreds of up-to-date Americans, who think those signs stand for just what they want. The advertising in the foreign districts, however crude it may seem, is in many respects more up to date than what is used downtown. Many of the foreigners—and many in the foreign districts are matured Americans—could prepare or order as pretty signs as seen anywhere, but this would spoil the business in those districts, and the old signs are retained.

A man on West Washington street, blacksmith by trade, and one who looks every bit a foreigner, is well educated. He knows every word in the English language adapted to his trade and does not have to stutter when spelling most any word called for. He writes a good hand and can print the capital and small letters of the alphabet almost as well as a graduate sign painter. But his sign over the door to the shop reads:

Another, almost as good, on the front of the shop, says:

As soon as these are noticed the onlooker will comment on the poor spelling, first of all. Then he will take into consideration the art of sign making and wonder why on earth a man should jumble the letters in that fashion. With that he will pass on and forget the apparent ignorance or carelessness displayed publicly until he arrives at the next establishment, which may have a sign something like this:

This may not seem so crude. The letters are uniform and present a good appearance. Evidently somebody with real artistic instinct had been employed to advertise the wants of the house. Here the spelling is the chief fault.

A large artistic and in every way beautiful sign, such as can be seen in the business district, would not attract the foreigners. First of all, they think an establishment carrying a sign of bright colors and worked out to mathematical precision would show too much prosperity, too much Americanism.

FIGHT FIRE AT SEA

ENGLISH TRAMP SHIP GAINS PORT OF SAN FRANCISCO AFTER ORDEAL.

CREW EXHAUSTED BY BATTLE

When 1,300 Miles From South American Coast Blaze Is Discovered—Continues for Six Days—Life Boats Prepared for Emergency.

San Francisco.—The British steamer St. Nicholas, which sailed from Antwerp May 3 with a general cargo, arrived here Monday with her sides blackened and charred and decks warped by a six-days' fire in the hold.

When 1,300 miles off the South American coast in latitude 14.51 south longitude 96.59 west, Capt. George Aitkin at daybreak, June 23, discovered smoke pouring from the ventilators.

When hatch No. 3 was opened, smoke and flames shot up and it was discovered that the cargo in the shelter deck was a seething mass of fire which it seemed impossible to combat.

Chief Officer J. W. Dickson, Second Officer Arthur Marriot and Third Officer Walter Chevner volunteered to go below with the hose passed along by the crew.

With mouths and nostrils covered by cloth, the volunteers were alternately lowered. Owing to the intense heat and the suffocating smoke, each man could remain below only a few moments.

All that day and the following night the fight to save the ship continued. In despair the captain ordered the lifeboats provisioned and trailed astern.

Early on the morning of June 24 the fire in the shelter deck was seemingly stamped out and the crew sank exhausted on the decks for a brief rest.

Almost at once fire broke out in lower hold No. 2. Two hundred tons of merchandise were thrown overboard before the blaze could be reached. Then the steam pipes were run below and after five days of fighting the flames were finally subdued.

The total damage is estimated at $500,000, mostly covered by insurance.

TRAINMEN SLAIN IN WRECK

New York Central Passenger Train Jumps Track—None of Passengers Seriously Hurt.

New York.—Three men were killed and a train load of passengers badly shaken up when north-bound train 59 on the New York Central, known as the Northern and Western Express, was wrecked Monday near Newton Hook, nine miles north of Hudson.

Engine and baggage car jumped the track and toppled over. The six other cars of the train, all Pullmans, left the rails, but remained upright and no one in them was seriously hurt. The railroad officials report that all the passengers were able to continue their journey.

Engineer Tyndall was caught under his engine and was flatly crushed, dying shortly afterward. The other trainmen were instantly killed.

A report received by the public service commission at Albany said the wreck was caused by the engine striking a door of a freight car that had fallen on the track.

RIVER STEAMER GOES DOWN

Cape Girardeau Strikes Snag in Mississippi and Sinks—All Passengers Safely Landed.

St. Louis.—The river steamer Cape Girardeau struck a snag and sank to the bottom of the Mississippi river at Turkey island, 50 miles south of here Monday. Ninety passengers were aboard, and all were taken ashore safely.

The boat was returning from Commerce, Mo. Many of the passengers were women and children. They were asleep when the boat hit an obstruction. The passengers crowded on the decks and members of the crew quieted them. They walked ashore on the gangplank. Later they were brought to St. Louis by train.

URGES LOEB FOR GOVERNOR

Taft Favors Collector New York Port for Gubernatorial Candidate in Empire State.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft Monday urged William Loeb, Jr., to accept the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New York this fall. Mr. Loeb is averse to taking up the task and would prefer to complete the work that he has undertaken as collector of the port, but before he left Burgess Point he assured the president that if the demand was made he would accept the duty.

Her husband laughed knowingly.

'Not Hiram Skinflint, Mandy. He'll go down to Jed Weatherby's general store and order a pound of granulated sugar. Then while Jed is looking another way he'll drop the ant among the grains and tell Jed as long as his sugar has ants in it he ought to sell it at half price. When LAWMAKERS Become PEEVISH

SERENO E. PAYNE.

CHAMP CLARK

JAMES R. MANN

BOURKE COCKRAN

IT IS the custom to speak of the United States senate as the most dignified legislative body in the world, while on occasions the house of representatives has been described as a "bear garden." The senate is ordinarily a dignified deliberative body, but nevertheless it is a mistake to look upon the house of representatives in any way, except on the rarest occasions, as an assembly given to disorderly procedure. There have been within the last few months many scenes of intense excitement in the house, times when personal, political and factional temper has run high and when there was the "high spirited excuse" for scenes bordering on the tumultuous. In the main, however, through all the temper-trying times of the attempt to shear Speaker Cannon of his power, and during the intense moments of the debate on the railroad bill, the members succeeded in holding themselves in check, and in giving an exhibition of self-restraint that was admirable. On only a few occasions within the space of seven years that one correspondent has watched proceedings in the house, have there been personal encounters on the floor between members. In only one instance really could these affairs be spoken of as personal encounters, for in only one case were blows exchanged.

A former minority leader of the house and one of the leading members of his party, exchanged blows, but the matter was a personal one, and not a political one, and it might have happened outside of the house as well as inside. It was not brought about by the heat of debate, but by long continued friction which engendered heat enough to cause an explosion while the house was in session. One of the parties to this physical encounter is now dead, and the other, next March, will take his seat in the senate of the United States. Their names probably will suggest themselves at once.

There are many hot-headed members of the lower house of congress, and some of these "temperamental ones" are leaders in their respective parties. As leaders, however, these men long ago learned that if they were to maintain leadership they must keep a check on their tongues and a check on their birthright willingness to enter on a scrimmage.

The members of the house realize that men laboring under excitement, will say things that they will be sorry for in a minute, and so frequently, words that positively are insulting, are overlooked by the offended member for a few minutes in order to give the offender a chance to get his faculties back and apologize. If he does not apologize, though he generally does, the one who feels himself aggrieved, has his own way of securing retraction, either by appeal to the house, or direct appeal, sometimes made in pretty sharp language, to the member who has offended.

One of the most exciting times in the house of representatives in recent years was a verbal encounter between Representative Bourke Cockran, Democrat, of New York city, and Representative John Dalzell, Republican, of Pittsburg. Bourke Cockran is known as one of the greatest orators of the United States, and John Dalzell is known as one of the ablest debaters on the Republican side of the house of representatives, a small man physically, but absolutely fearless. Dalzell is one of the chief advocates of protection.

The New York member attacked the consistency of the Pittsburg member in a speech, and said some things about the inconsistency of the Republican party. To Dalzell, this seemed to give the opportunity that he wanted. He stood on the floor of the house and accused Cockran not only of inconsistency, but practically of using his gift of oratory, first to uphold one side of a question, and then to uphold another, and the Pittsburg man did not try to conceal the reasons which he thought were responsible for the change of opinion and the change of attitude on the part of the man whom he was criticizing.

In that speech against Cockran, Dalzell was waspish. There were men on the floor who expected fully to see Cockran attack him, not verbally, but physically, but the New Yorker sat through the speech, and when it was ended arose in his own place. The New Yorker contented himself with saying that if he were guilty of the charges which the Republican member had made against him, he was not fit to stay in the house of representatives, and he demanded that congress as a matter of personal privilege to him, should make an investigation of his conduct, make a report thereon, and if he were found guilty, the fact should be published to the country.

The house refused to take any action on the New Yorker's demand for an investigation, and the whole matter went by default with the speeches of both men standing in the Congressional Record as evidence of a warm day in congress.

In a debate on the tariff last year, the dry subject of lumber came near causing a physical encounter between Representative Joseph W. Fordney of Michigan, and Representative Adam M. Byrd of Mississippi. The Mississippian had said that the Michigan member was interested personally in lumber matters and intimated that he was particularly interested in a section of a lumber trust. The Michigan man said something in retort which was a little stronger than a mere statement that the Mississippian did not know what he was talking about. At any rate, Representative Bryd stripped off his coat and started down the aisle toward the Republican side, and toward Mr. Fordney, who stood perfectly still, awaiting the attack. Not many years ago Fordney had worked in the capacity of what is known as a "lumber jack," and he is as hard as any nail that was ever driven into a board. Before the Mississippian could reach the scene of intended action, however, he was seized by several members, and his coat was slipped on to his back once more. Later, the two representatives made up their differences.

In seven years these are the only instances which can be recalled at this time of troubles between members that did, or seemed likely to culminate in serious encounters. The truth is that the house is seldom a "bear garden," and the best test of the tempers of the members was made during the time which preceded the change in the rules of the house which was secured by a coalition of so-called Insurgent Republicans and the Democrats. Led by Representative Norris of Nebraska, the Insurgents and Democrats together succeeded in taking away from the speaker his membership in that committee. It was a great change from former conditions, and it was a direct attack on the power of the speaker, an attack that had in it seemingly much that was personal, although most of the men who had a hand in it, denied that there was any personal feeling.

Men sat white in their seats or stood and spoke with shaking voices, so tremendous was the excitement, but during it all each man kept a firm hold on his temper, and while it seemed to the spectators that encounters must come, they never came, and the change in the rules was effected, involving as it did, an airing of factional differences with just as little outward show of disturbance as would attend the enactment of legislation of small degree of interest.

Every man has mannerisms, but of course in the house of representatives pronounced mannerisms of the leading members are the only ones which become impressed upon the public. Sereno E. Payne, the Republican leader, is the author of the last tariff bill as it passed the house of representatives. Outwardly, Mr. Payne suggests a condition of mind and temper indicated by the sound of his first name, but the Republican leader is not serene at all times, although he, perhaps better than any other prominent man in the house, keeps control of his emotions.

Mr. Payne is fat and he is jolly under ordinary circumstances. Occasionally when his good Republican soul is pierced by an arrow of sarcasm, invective or reproach fired from the Democratic side, Sereno loses his serenity, and he grows quite hot and emits what some members have dubbed bolts of lightning. On occasions of less heat, the Republican leader emits sparks only, but they are of the kind that burn. There are possibilities of indignation and anger in Representative Payne that no one would suspect who looks down from the gallery upon his ordinarily calm exterior.

Champ Clark of Missouri, the leader of the Democrats, loves his joke and it takes an occasion that is worth while before he rouses himself to anger. "When Champ Clark does get mad he gets mad," is the expressive way in which a Democratic colleague of the minority leader put the matter recently. There was an exhibition of how mad Champ Clark can get at the time when he was trying to hold his Democratic colleagues in a solid line in favor of a change in the rules governing house procedure. This was at the time when some of the Insurgents, in connection with the Democrats were trying to secure what is now known as Calendar Wednesday. It was at a time long prior to the fight which ended in the removal of the speaker from the committee on rules.

The Democratic leader found that he could not control all his party colleagues, and he had a suspicion that some of them knew that they were to get committee preferment at the hands of the speaker, provided they deserted the Democratic leader in the time of need. One New York Democratic member, with some others from different parts of the country, deserted their chieftain in the hour of trouble, and later the New Yorker was given a fine committee berth by the speaker.

No one will ever forget the castigation which Champ Clark gave this colleague, whom he looked upon as a deserter from the cause of his fellows. It was a scoring the like unto which few men have ever received. The New Yorker took it in apparent humbleness of spirit, and it may be that he did not have any excuse to offer. Time is a great healer, however, and now the Democratic leader and the man whom he excoriated are good friends, and seem to be working in harmony for the party good in the house of representatives.

The hardest worked man in the house of representatives, not even barring the speaker, is Representative James R. Mann, Republican, of Chicago. Mann is known as the great objector, and also as the watch dog. It is his duty to be on the floor of the house constantly, and to watch legislation, line by line, and to see to it that nothing is "slipped over," which the Republican majority does not think proper. Mr. Mann keeps an eye on amendments to the appropriation bills, and all kinds of things as they come before the house. It is he who objects to the consideration of many small bills when unanimous consent unquestionably would secure passage for them. This makes him in a sense tremendously unpopular with members who want to get something through, and can only get action under unanimous consent.

Day of the Hall Boy

In this day of complaint against incompetent servants of all sorts it is rather remarkable to study the general utility of the apartment-house hallboy. The resourceful New York woman finds many uses for the liveried lad and where he has been tested and found thoroughly reliable he is often trusted with responsible duties.

At one of the upper West side apartment hotels two extremely bright young colored men have been employed for four years and the commissions with which they are trusted are worth studying. One of them was seen at a neighboring bank the other morning depositing money for three guests at the hotel. Several other colored boys in uniform were performing a similar service. The receiving teller at the bank explained that many of his women depositors intrusted this work, especially on stormy days, to hall boys and elevator boys and that there has not been a single case of dishonesty or misunderstanding in the matter.

In some houses elevator and hall boys are not permitted to run errands, the New York World says. In others, where two or three lads are on duty, rules are relaxed and superintendents are glad to let the boys serve the tenants. Naturally the boys like to do the errands, because there is corresponding increase in their incomes.

Elevator and hall boys are also intrusted with all sorts of repairs, sponging, pressing, dyeing, etc. You will see them hurrying toward the uptown shops, their arms laden with all sorts of wearing apparel, from silk hats that need ironing to shoes that need half-soling. For such work the boy generally gets two bits of money, one from the tenant for performing the errand and another from the tradesman to whom he throws the work.

A busy time for many of the boys is Sunday afternoons and evenings, after the delicatessen shops open. Then housewives upon whom unexpected company has descended whistle for the hall boy, who makes an emergency run to the nearest purveyor of ready-cooked food.

On Sunday mornings you will find quite a line of colored boys in uniform lined up at the branch postoffices in the residence districts. These represent various apartment houses and apartment hotels whose tenants want their mail on Sunday mornings and who club together to give the colored attendants a small fee for making the trip to the branch postoffice during the hour at which mail is distributed every Sunday.

A very common source of revenue for hall boys is the care of baby buggies. Very few apartments offer room for such vehicles and it is not always safe to leave them in the basement. A bright hall boy will take care of the carriage, keeping it cleaned and repaired, locking it with a chain or padlock to some clean, safe place in the basement and having it ready for use at a signal from the mother or nurse.

Landlords may object to dogs, but hall boys—never. A valuable dog is pretty sure to mean a weekly stipend to an obliging colored attendant. Here again the iron fence or bar becomes useful as an anchorage for the pet in his care and many an uptown hall boy spends his noon hour giving a pedigreed dog its outing.

An upper West side boy whose Rooseveltian teeth are the hallmark of good nature said when interviewed on the subject:

"Yessir—we all can do most anything. Missus Powers, she has me open all her cans, 'cause her hands is shaky, an' I hooks her dresses when Mr. Powers he ain't home. I kin market fur her of she's feelin' poorly, an' I allus meets her mother at the subway station an' takes her back again. I take keer of her cat when she's away and I feed Missus Brown's bird when she goes. Most all the ladies they give me their keys if they're 'spectin' some one to come while they're out, an' I ain't never made no mistake."

GOT PHOTOGRAPH OF PANTHER

Exciting Experience Which Few Members of the Party Care to Go Through Again.

A panther is not easily killed, and will often revive with very unpleasant results, as on a certain occasion in the Deccan. He appeared to be quite dead, and one of the spectators rushed up with a camera on a stand to obtain a picture of the supreme moment. He got his photograph, and, strange to say, it survived what followed; but no sooner had he taken it than the panthere revived, tore himself loose, and went for the photographer. Somehow the man escaped, but the camera was sent flying, and, disconcerted by his encounter with it, the panther turned and made for the nearest tree, up which he went as quickly as a monkey. Now, the tree was crowded with interested spectators, and for three or four strenuous seconds (until the panther was shot) we enjoyed a spectacle of natives dropping to earth with loud thuds like ripe plums from a jungle tree as the panther approached them.—Wide World Magazine.

A BURNING ERUPTION FROM HEAD TO FEET

"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies, as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nenning, 1112 Salina St., Watertown, N. Y., Apr. 11, 1909."

"All right! Let's see, then," replied the older child, skeptically. "Where's Asia?"

It was a stiff one, but the youngster never faltered.

"Well, that," he answered coolly, "is one of the things my father knows."—Harper's Bazaar.

He Had Been Observing.

"Why don't you call your invention the 'Bachelor's Button?'" I asked my friend, who was about to put on the market a button that a man could attach without needle or thread.

"I fear that the appellation would imply too much restrictiveness," he answered. "You see," he went on, giving me one of his knowing smiles, "I expect to do just as much business with the married men as with the bachelors."

A white man was lynched in an Ohio city the other day. Let Cairo, Ill., sit up and look cheerful.

The woman suffragists are still at large. Their automobile circus struck Lake county, Monday.

One of the unwashed has suggested Potter Palmer as the next Democratic candidate for Governor. Gee!

Waukegan is to have a new cemetery or enlarge the old one. This doesn't mean Waukegan is a dead one.

A Barrington woman has named her first-born Jack Johnson. As she is a lady of color the thing is explained.

Roosevelt is going to speak for Beveridge in Indiana. Most of us would speak for beverage anywhere these hot days.

The black hand has driven five residents out of Waukegan. Lucky this happened after the census man had been around.

Carter Harrison, Sr., once said "you could make bacon out of a politician." In a famine Waukegan can live on the fat of the land.

They are talking of stopping the free lunches in the bar rooms at Waukegan. What do they want to do over there—drink all the time?

The summer boy with his ten dollars a week, on his vacation, is again making us around here, look like the proverbial thirty cents.

The Census Bureau is announcing the population of cities way down in Texas This looks like a plot to give Waukegan nervous prostration.

More boys than girls were born in Lake County last month. The news has not yet been broken to those suffragettes in the motor cars.

One man has withdrawn his name as a candidate on the county ticket. It will save trouble for some others if they will take time by the forelock.

Potatoes at $1.25 a bushel next winter is going to make it hard sledding for some of the fellows who don't win out at the primaries in September.

When all is said and done, there will still be people and there is going to be a bunch of them, who don't think the county seat is the whole cheese.

The bankers of Kansas are not going to oan any more money to people who want to buy automobiles. Isn't this a blow to an American industry?

A book has been exhumed that describes Chicago when there were only 1800 people living there. This may not be too early to write a book about Antioch.

A man by the name of Guff is running for office down in Vermillion County. There is where Uncle Joe lives and for a practical man like him, it must give him a heart throb.

Somebody has discovered Dr. Cook's flag on the top of Mt. McKinley. That gives us hope. Somebody will yet discover whether George Edmund Foss is an insurgent or a stand patter.

The free advertising Fox Lake received in the Chicago Tribune has given it a boom. A clever judge of those things said the other day, it looked like "Twenty-second street moved up.

The experts are now telling about the yellow streak in Jeffreys, they knew was there all the time. If Roosevelt ever gets whipped someone will bob up and say they told you the yellow was there.

Ballinger praised Taft in his Chicago speech. He can't square himself with the American people that way and besides that side of the street is being worked pretty hard by some other lost sisters.

Who killed Cock Robin is an easy guess compared with the query; "who started the story that Mayor Busse of Chicago was going to resign all official esponsibilities and take up evangelistic work.

We hand the laurel to Waukegan now. As a city of relatives it skins anything extant. It has played many strong cards but last week they flashed on us a cousin of Jeffreys. If that is not a climax its nothing.

What is shale rock seems to be the question that is knawing at Chicago's vitals in the interum of the Browne-White panorama. We always thought there was nothing but blue mud under that wonderful metropolis.

It looks as if the Waukegan politicians were going to have their free lunch cut off at their social functions in their home city but they will continue to insist on making a free lunch of the rest of the county.

It has been told that our Congressman Foss once whispered to his private secretary that he would rather be right than be president. But the thing that keeps George guessing in these days of political turmoil is, what do his constitueuts regard as the thing that is right.

Merely because you don't hear anything about Oom Shelby Cullum these sultry days you must not think that he is not still our U. S. Senator. He is on his job as tight as any one in the state, Foss not excepted. And like our valorous though discreet congressman, he means to stick, though the state puts one over us—Cullom is nearly eighty.

Those Good Souls

As before announced in the News a few good souls were going to meet in Peoria and show us the way out of Egypt. They have met, resolved and vanished.

What does it all amount to?

We are all in favor of better government, we are all in favor of cleaning Aegean stables but you can't shove out manure with pious resolutions.

If things were wrong with our state legislature and that there was a jack yot and other funds (with apologies to Deneen) unlawfully distributed how is a convention like the one at Peoria going to make any practical results for the better?

The newspapers have told us all that is probable, possible and much that is impossible in the conditions that exist and every sensible man has formed his own conclusion as to the real status of things. He has made his subtractions and deductions and come to his own resolves.

The sensible man needs no help from these grand-standers who carry their virtue on their coat sleeves.

Politics now days is far from the vestry room, the worst for that, and still farther from mutual admiration societies where each man has a panacea for all the ills that the human is heir to.

These good souls, for they think themselves such, and we are willing to take them at their word, meet and resolve and meet again many times more and resolve, but how on earth is that going to beat John Smith the grafter against Jim Jones the honest man in the steenth district.

We can all learn the ethics of the game from our own individual sense of right and wrong. These Peoria self appointed delegates do not help us a bit. And that is as far as they go.

There is just one way that they can make realy good. Go back home and work and vote for the man who is right in their particular district. Cast aside all prejudice. Because a candidate is at the head of a Baptist Sunday school doesn't meen that he will be an honor to the state. Witness the late state senator from below. Because another may be a rounder who shouts single tax or socialism doesn't mean that he is going to be on the square mearly for the reason that he was present at that Peoria convention.

The whole thing resolves itself into—not the Peoria resolve—but a resolve for each voter for himself to find the best man for the place, then get out, roll up his sleeves, work for him and see that he is elected.

That's our idea of reform.

SLAYER IS LYNCHED

MOB STORMS NEWARK (O.) JAIL AND HANGS "DRY" DETECTIVE.

HAD KILLED A SALOONIST

Officers of Anti-Rum League Raid "Near Beer" Saloons in Which Man Is Shot and Dies Later—Then Trouble Begins.

Newark, O.—Battering down the doors of the jail, a mob of women, men and children Friday took Charles Etherington, an anti-saloon detective, who confessed to having killed a man here, and lynched him in the public square.

The mob which had been increasing all evening at the jail became frenzied and refused to listen to pleadings for preservation of order.

They broke all the jail windows and rammed in the outer door, taking the keys from the jailer. They quickly found the prisoner's cell on the second floor and then, dragged by a rope, the man was taken up Third street to the square and across the park to the southeast corner, where he was strung up over the arm of a telephone pole.

Gov. Harmon arrived in the city Sunday and began an investigation which may lead to the ouster of the sheriff and Mayor.

The shooting of Howard and the lynching of Etherington is the culmination of long standing trouble between the "wets" and "drys" here.

Etherington and twenty others, all said to be "dry" detectives, came here from Cleveland and other places to get evidence against "near beer" saloons. At the first place no trouble arose. At the second Charles Richards, the bartender, was handcuffed for over an hour. At the third place visited the trouble started.

A mob of 2,000 gathered and threatened the detectives. With revolvers drawn the Anti-Saloon league officers retreated to a hotel. The police interfered there, arresting eight of the detectives.

At the police station, where they were searched, revolvers, black jacks and cartridge belts were taken from them.

The remaining twelve detectives broke and ran, pursued by the howling mob. Half a dozen were caught and beaten. The police rescued most of them. A downtown crowd fell on James Henderson of Columbus, and beat him so severely that he was taken to the Newark hospital. Etherington, who fled to the ball park, stumbled in his flight and the crowd set upon him. Howard, the proprietor of a "near beer" saloon, the last place searched by the detectives, was in front of Etherington when the latter drew a revolver and fired.

Etherington was hurried to the jail with a yelling mob at the heels of the police who were protecting him. All afternoon the crowd stormed about the place threatening to lynch the detective.

The crisis came when word was flashed from the Newark hospital that Howard, who was a former city policeman, had died there of his wound. Up to this time Sheriff William Linke apparently had the situation well in hand. When it became known that Howard was dead an immense crowd gathered in front of the jail, the windows were smashed, the door battered in and Etherington dragged out and strung up.

Newark, which over a year ago was voted "dry," has "near beer" saloons which the Anti-Saloon league officials have in the past said they suspected of selling beer. Feeling has been high against the Anti-Saloon leaguers for a long time.

TAFT TO TAKE YACHT CRUISE

President Will Extend Vacation Ten Days and Make Trip Along Maine Coast.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft decided Thursday that at the end of his ten days' vacation he will take a ten days' cruise in the naval yacht Mayflower for the purpose of resting up. The cruise will start on July 18, on which date, donning the uniform of commander-in-chief of the navy, which, by the way, is the same as that of commander-in-chief of the army and president, Mr. Taft, accompanied by his family, will board the Mayflower and weigh anchor for Bar Harbor and other summer ports of call on the Maine coast.

Bar Harbor will be the base from which short trips will be made to near-by points. The party will sleep on board the yacht at night, but will probably go ashore at various places where the golfing looks good.

A convoy will probably follow the Mayflower, as it is regarded as too great a risk to have the president go to sea without assistance being in easy reach in case of accident.

Madriz Removes American.

Washington.—Doctor Madriz, president of Nicaragua, has ordered the removal of William Pittman from Bluefields, without notice, thereby committing an act which he is to be asked to explain immediately to this government. The offense of Madriz consists in the fact that his faction had promised Mr. Moffatt, the United States consul at Bluefields, that Pittman, the young American, who fell into the hands of the Madriz soldiers, would not be removed, except on notification to this government.

TRAIN ROBBERS ARE FOILED

THREE YOUTHS HOLD UP THE "KATY" FLYER.

Crew Slips From Under Muzzles of Revolvers, Regains Cab and Dash Away.

St. Louis. — Cleverness on the part of the engineer prevented three youthful and apparently inexperienced bandits from robbing the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Southwestern flyer, No. 3, near Larimore, about fifteen miles from St. Louis.

Three young men were arrested as suspects and are in jail pending investigation. The police do not believe they are the men wanted and are searching for three others.

The bandits compelled the engineer and fireman, at the points of revolvers, to descend from the cab and go with them to the baggage car to assist them in uncoupling it.

While tinkering about the coupling the engineer and fireman in the darkness managed to glide away from the bandits. The two started on a run for the cab. The bandits soon became aware that the crew was dashing for the cab and opened fire.

The engineer and fireman sprang into the cab, the engineer threw the throttle wide open and dashed away with the train.

Several shots were fired during the attempted hold-up, and the passengers, who filled five coaches, were thrown into a panic. Conductor Walker, who also displayed great coolness in the crisis, devoted his time to calming the passengers.

The train was in the hands of the bandits 40 minutes. For half an hour they tried of their own accord to uncouple the baggage car. It was not until they found themselves unable to do the work that they got the engineer and fireman.

According to the railroad officials here there were thousands of dollars in the baggage car in addition to the mail.

FALLS FAR WITH AEROPLANE

Baroness De La Roche Loses Head at Approach of Other Aeronauts—Is Fatally Hurt.

Bethany Plain, Rheims.—Baroness De la Roche, the first French woman aeroplanist, was injured probably fatally here Friday by falling from a height of more than 150 feet.

Baroness De la Roche had flown around the field once at a height of 80 meters (250 feet), when suddenly in front of the applauding tribunes she appeared to become frightened and confused at the approach of two other aeroplanes. She began to descend, but while still 50 meters from the ground lost control of the machine. The aeroplane turned over and fell like a log.

The baroness' legs and arms were broken. Her mangled body was removed from the wreckage and taken to the hospital, where she is said to be dying. It was found that her skull was fractured.

While momentarily conscious the baroness said that the rush of air from a motor passing over her head had frightened her, whereupon she cut the ignition and lost control of her machine.

ALL RELIGIONS TO UNITE

John D. Rockefeller Quotes Letter From Roman Catholic Bishop to Support His Prediction.

Cleveland, O. — John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in an address before the Bible class of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, prophesied the amalgamation of all the religions of the world. To bear out his statement, he quoted a letter from a Roman Catholic bishop, whose name he did not disclose.

"There is more of the spirit of Christ in the world today than ever before," said the oil king. "It is the greatest power. People who love him are coming together and they will unite. Regardless of the slight difference due to many religious organizations, the same spirit is there and the motive will accomplish as much."

YOUNG TAFT IS EXONERATED

State Commissioners Find That President's Son Was Not Responsible for Auto Accident.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft was informed that the state highway commissioners have completed their investigation into the accident in which Robert Taft, son of the president, ran down with an automobile Di Gregordio, an Italian laborer.

Young Mr. Taft is completely exonerated, the commissioners deciding that he was in no way responsible for the accident and the president will be informed that his son may have an automobile license as soon as he cares to apply for it.

INDICTED AS JURY TAMPERER

CHICAGO GROCER CHARGED WITH TRYING TO CORRUPT.

Chicago.—A fresh sensation in connection with the legislative bribery scandal arose when State's Attorney Wayman Wednesday announced that an indictment had been voted charging John A. Maloy, a grocer, with attempting to corrupt Oscar T. Morford, a juror in the recent trial of Lee O'Neil Browne.

Morford, his wife and his father, Thorough Morford, testified before the grand jury. Mrs. Morford testified that shortly after the Browne jury had been sworn, she went to Maloy's grocery within the neighborhood in which the Morfords live. Maloy, she said, gave her two cigars, which he asked her to give to her husband, who had been accepted on the jury. Maloy asked her to use her influence to persuade her husband to vote for the acquittal of Browne, holding out as a reward of doing so that Morford would not have to work for a railroad any more as he would get a lump of money.

By agreement between counsel the retrial of the case of Lee O'Neil Browne, charged with bribing Representative Charles A. White to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator, was continued to July 20.

DEATH IN TORNADO'S PATH

Hits Circus and Shatters Tent, Killing One—Levels Crops—Wires Are Down.

Watertown, S. D.—One dead and a score injured, the main tent and menagerie tent of Ringlings' circus in ruins and two horses killed is the result of a tornado here.

The spectators had barely left the tent when the first blast ripped the canvas into ribbons. The canvas caught fire from the lamps and was carried blazing into the air by the gale.

It was the heaviest hailstorm ever witnessed in the Red river valley.

It extended over the northern part of Grand Forks county and across Polk county, Minnesota.

In some sections the crops were pounded down to the ground and leaves were stripped from the trees.

Details are meager, as all wires are down west.

Reports received from Breckenridge, Minn., Grand Forks, N. D., Sioux Falls and Brookings, in South Dakota, tell of bad storms and much damage inside the storm belt, but details are lacking.

NAVY HEADS ARE FORCED OUT

Captains Veder, Wright and Underwood Make Way for "New Blood"—Selections Cause Surprise.

Washington.—"Plucked" from the active list of the navy, Captains D. W. Veder, Edmund B. Underwood and Edward Everett Wright were retired. The trio of compulsory transfers completes the quota of fourteen vacancies necessary in the active list to permit promotions under the "new blood" provisions of the naval personnel act.

The selections made by the board of five admirals surprised naval officers.

One Killed in a Wreck.

Mason City, Ia.—One person was killed and several injured when a south-bound Illinois Central freight train plunged into Red Cedar creek, near here, Friday. Fifteen cars went over the 90-foot embankment.

Pinchot to Speak in Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo.—It was announced Friday that Gifford Pinchot, ex-chief forester of the government, will deliver an address before the Knife and Fork club of this city on the night of July 15.

RAIL LINES ARE PROSPEROUS

Roads Are Placing Enormous Orders for Equipment—Dividends Show Big Increase.

New York.—Continued evidences of the great prosperity that is surging all over the country are given in the enormous orders placed within the last few days by the large railroads of the country for additional equipment.

No such tremendous sums of money have ever been spent by the railroads, it is said, except in the initial construction of a road, or in a large extension. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company alone has appropriated $7,000,000 for new equipment.

Not merely in money spent for improvements of facilities, but in the declaring of dividends by the railroads lies the proof that the good times which returned a year or more ago have in no way diminished.

Since January 1 eighty-six railroads and industrial corporations in this country have increased their disbursements or declared initial or resumed dividends to the extent of $57,625,000 a year. Twenty-three of these corporations are railroads, their increase alone representing $15,000,000. Up to June 1 of this year the aggregate dividend payments from the eighty-six corporations in question have amounted to about $298,000,000, which is an increase of about $46,230,000 over the first five months of last year. No better proof could be given, it is declared, that the country will enjoy throughout 1910 almost unexampled prosperity.

BEGINS AN INFAMOUS RULE

Nicaragua Adopts Reconcentration Policy Under Which, for Years, Spain Governed Cuba.

Washington.—The state department is informed that Nicaragua has begun the reconcentration policy which made Spanish rule in Cuba so infamous.

The department has the text of an order issued by Sebastiana Salinas of the department of Granada, which commands "all the inhabitants of the Mombacho Ridge to assemble within twenty-four hours in Granada, without distinction of age or sex."

Persons not complying will be "regarded as revolutionists and treated as such." That is, if General Salinas thinks fit he may shoot them or starve them into submission. The people of this ridge are anti-Madriz and they are to be crushed in the most barbarous manner.

ESTRADANS WIN NAVAL FIGHT

Repulse Surprise Attack by Two Madriz Gunboats on Town on Pearl Lagoon.

Bluefields.—The combined defense of a force of American planters and merchants and the Estrada soldiers successfully balked an attack against Pearl Lagoon Saturday when the Madriz gunboat San Jacinto, backed up by the gunboat Venus, directed a heavy fire into the center of the town.

Concealed guns set upon the coast since the last Madriz invasion were aimed against the San Jacinto. Captain Solis of the gunboat and a score of the crew were killed outright, while forty or fifty more of the men were wounded. The attacking gunboat was practically disabled.

The Lost Chords.

The village concert was to be a great affair. They had the singers, they had the program sellers, they had the doorkeepers and they would doubtless have the audience. All they needed was the piano, but that they lacked. Nor could they procure one anywhere.

At last the village organist learned that one was possessed by Farmer Hayseed, who lived "at the top o' the 'ill." Forthwith he set out with two men and a van.

"Take it, an' welcome," said Hayseed cordially "I've no objections s'long as ye put 'Pyenner by Hayseed' on the program."

They carted it away.

"An' I wish 'em joy of it," murmured Mrs. Hayseed, as the van disappeared from sight.

"Wish 'em joy of it," repeated Hayseed. "What d'ye mean?"

"Well, I mean I only 'ope they'll find all the notes they want," replied the good woman. "'Cos, ye see, when I wanted a bit o' wire I allus went to the old planner for it."

It Is a Mistake

Many have the idea that anything will sell if advertised strong enough. This is a great mistake. True, a few sales might be made by advertising an absolutely worthless article but it is only the article that is bought again and again that pays. An example of the big success of a worthy article is the enormous sale that has grown up for Cascarets Candy Cathartic. This wonderful record is the result of great merit successfully made known through persistent advertising and the mouth-to-mouth recommendation given Cascarets by its friends and users.

Like all great successes, trade pirates prey on the unsuspecting public, by marketing fake tablets similar in appearance to Carcarets. Care should always be exercised in purchasing well advertised goods, especially an article that has a national sale like Cascarets. Do not allow a substitute to be palmed off on you.

Cost of Spontaneity.

"I want the office, of course," said the aspiring statesman, "but not unless I am the people's choice."

"We can fix that, too," said his campaign manager; "only you know it's a good deal more expensive to be the people's choice than it is to go in as the compromise candidate."

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach.

A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Many Women who are Splendid Cooks

dread having to prepare an elaborate dinner because they are not sufficiently strong to stand over an intensely hot coal range. This is especially true in summer. Every woman takes pride in the table she sets, but often it is done at tremendous cost to her own vitality through the weakening effect of cooking on a coal range in a hot kitchen.

It is no longer necessary to wear yourself out preparing a fine dinner. Even in the heat of summer you can cook a large dinner without being worn out.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

Gives no outside heat, no smell, no smoke. It will cook the biggest dinner without heating the kitchen or the cook. It is immediately lighted and immediately extinguished. It can be changed from a slow to a quick fire by turning a handle. There's no drudgery connected with it, no coal to carry, no wood to chop. You don't have to wait fifteen or twenty minutes till its fire gets going. Apply a light and it's ready. By simply turning the wick up or down you get a slow or an intense heat on the bottom of the pot, pan, kettle or oven, and nowhere else. It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for coffee, teapot or saucepan, and even a rack for towels. It saves time, worry, health and temper. It does all a woman needs and more than she expects. Made with 1, 2, and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner sizes can be had with or without Cabinet.

Unflattering Truth.

A Chicago physician gleefully tells a child story at his own expense. The five children of some faithful patients had measles, and during their rather long stay in the improvised home hospital they never failed to greet his daily visit with pleased acclamation. The good doctor felt duly flattered, but rashly pressed the children, in the days of convalescense, for the reason of this sudden affection. At last the youngest and most indiscreet let slip the better truth.

"We felt so sick that we wanted awfully to do something naughty, but we were afraid to be bad for fear you and the nurse would give us more horrid medicine. So we were awfully glad to see you, always, 'cause you made us stick out our tongues. We stuck 'em out awful far!"

Looked Like a Pattern.

"You mean that big piece with dots and curves and diagonals and things all over it?"

"Yes. It was my map of the path of Halley's comet. I wanted to—"

"My goodness! I thought it was that pattern I asked you to get, and the dressmaker is cutting out my new shirtwaist by it!"—Chicago Evening Post.

"'Pears t' me thar's somethin' wrong with stertisticks," remarked the oldest inhabitant as he dropped into his usual place on the loafers' bench.

"Wall, ercordin' tew 'em," continued the o. i., "we orter hev had a death in teown ev'ry six weeks fer th' past tew years."

"Is that so?" said the grocer.

"Yaas," answered the other, "an' by ginger, we ain't had 'em!"

Fire Drill in the Big Printing Shop

FIRE."

The word was passed around among amateur firefighters of the government printing office one afternoon recently. The fire brigade is said to consist of about a dozen laborers.

Really there was no fire about the big printing office, save in the engine room furnaces and under the smelting pots.

Some one high in authority at the printery had read a newspaper account of a disastrous conflagration in the west. The story of the blaze put the notion in his head to resurrect a "general order" of several years' standing which provides for a fire drill at intervals.

It was near to the hour for closing down "the works," 4:30 o'clock, when the edict went forth that the fire brigade was to assemble quickly and from the new building attack an imaginary conflagration in the old structure across the alley, which separates the new from the old.

Upon the receipt of the order from the front office the amateur firemen got busy without delay. There was a dragging forth of hose and other apparatus for fighting "the red demon." A tall man, who seemed to be in supreme command of the firemen, gave the orders in cool, confident tones.

Innumerable hose lines were connected with fire plugs in the new building. Nozzles were aimed at the venerable structure across Jackson alley. As the streams of water began to play and the spray was rising in clouds, like the mist from Niagara Falls, the printers, bookbinders, woman folders and other workers began to file out of the buildings.

There is an order that the exit of the workmen and workwomen must be through the side doors along the alley and G street. Consequently, as the head of the line of workers reached the doors on the alley and witnessed the deluge of water crashing against the walls of the old building and flying back in foaming masses, they tried to force thier way back into the new structure.

Hundreds of toilers behind, not aware of the conditions in front, pressed forward and forced the front rank out into the alley and into the torrents of flying water. The ensued a scene of excitement.

"Con" Men Find Virginian Easy Mark

A STORY told at police headquarters by Clarence Davis of Glenallen, Va., recalled to older members of the force the day when confidence men had full sway here. The Virginian related that three men had inveigled him into matching twenty-five-cent pieces in a room at the Raleigh hotel, and that they had disappeared, one of them taking $458 belonging to him.

When Davis reached the city and he registered at a hotel near John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue, he was seated on the coping at the northwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 7th street when a stranger spoke to him. He did not hesitate to tell the stranger he was from near Richmond, and the latter said he was acquainted with people in Richmond.

The Virginian informed the stranger that he was thinking of going to New York, and that he was a bricklayer by trade.

"So am I a bricklayer," the stranger said, "and I'm out of work."

"Come to New York with me," Davis told him, "and I will see that you get a job."

Soon a second man, a red-haired individual, who said he was an Englishman, appeared and was introduced. A drink was suggested. The men had one in a saloon on Pennsylvania avenue.

Davis said he would go back to Richmond and draw his money from bank in order that he might have funds enough to see him through his trip to New York. Accompanied by Smith, the man who first accosted him, Davis went to Richmond, drew his money and returned the next day. The red-haired man and a friend met them and the quartet went to the hotel where the alleged swindlers had taken a room.

A game of matching quarters was indulged in and Davis lost what silver change he had. It was then necessary for him to get out his roll of bills. It was the first time Lawrence and Hopkins, as the two "con" men were known, had seen the roll. At the suggestion of one of the men, Davis handed his roll to Hopkins to hold. Lawrence then said he wanted to get a check cashed, and it was while he was pretending he was looking for a man to cash it that those in the party became separated.

Army of Bees Sting Horses to Death

A TEAM of horses, stung by a couple of bees, plunged madly into twenty hives, upsetting them, releasing an army of 80,000 angry bees, which stung the horses to death, a few days ago, over on the Virginia side of the Potomac river.

The negro driver, who ran at the first alarm, did not escape unwounded. Thousands of bees pursued his flight, and he was terribly stung, but lives.

A dozen or more irresponsible bees were flying about the grounds at the home of Dr. Reginald Munson, on the Columbia pike, near Arlington, where he has forty hives. The horses, attached to a coal wagon, worried by their humming, slapped at the bees with their tails. The bees retaliated, stinging the horses.

The horses, wild with alarm at the unusual attack, plunged madly about the yard, upsetting twenty hives and releasing some ten bushels of bees—about 80,000 in all.

These bees immediately attacked the horses, stinging them so badly that both animals died within an hour.

Dr. Munson has long been an enthusiastic apiarist. His hives are located in the yard at one side of his house.

The coal wagon, driven by George Low, drew up in front of the place about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Low was a little dubious about venturing inside. He could plainly hear an occasional buzzing that was not altogether music to his ears.

A black swarm of buzzing bees immediately flew toward the horses and Low. The latter went scampering down the road with his hands up to his face, brushing away a thousand or more of the insects which had gathered about him.

The frightened horses were almost instantly covered with the insects. They started to turn toward the road, but sank limply in the traces, whinneying wildly with pain.

The entire neighborhood was instantly aroused. A crowd collected at a safe distance to watch the unusual event. No one dared at first to go to the rescue of the horses.

Fervid Vocabulary

THE lone policeman who stands guard by the District building in Washington was making his rounds placidly when there dawned upon his horrified mind the fact that a horse was standing with his fore feet upon the District building's own sidewalk.

The horse was hitched to a two-seated surrey. Upon a seat of the surrey sat a gentleman with a broad black hat.

"Get that horse off the sidewalk," said the policeman.

"If you want this horse to get off that sidewalk you put him off yourself, you—" The remainder of the sentence was more in the way of expletive than explanation.

"You better shut up and get that horse where it belongs," the policeman pursued.

Cause of Arrest

And then there followed a controversy. It was heated, to use a well-worn but perfectly good phrase, and in the end the policeman hopped into the buggy and took the broad-hatted gentleman around to police station No. 1, where it became evident that the prisoner was a southerner and was being charged with profanity—and lots of it, varied, variegated, lurid, personal and original.

The southern gentleman kept it going to some extent even while he was being examined at No. 1, but he did quit in time to let them know that he was not the owner of the horse.

About this time a hatless, breathless real estate agent rushed out of the District building.

"Somebody's run off with my horse and buggy! Where did they go?" he shouted.

Meantime No. 1 had managed to cool the southern gentleman to a state where he would disgorge $5 as collateral, the price of his profanity. And all this time no one had found out that the southern gentleman was no the owner of the horse at all.

Controlled Newspapers.

The Atchison Globe says that no advertiser has ever tried to control its editorial policy, the remark being occasioned by the charge often made nowadays, that the big advertisers direct the editorial policy of newspapers.

The experience of the Globe is the experience of most newspapers. The merchant who does a great deal of advertising is more interested in the circulation department of a newspaper than in the editorial department. If a daily paper goes to the homes of the people, and is read by them, he is satisfied, and it may chase after any theory or fad, for all he cares. He has troubles of his own, and he isn't trying to shoulder those of the editorial brethren.

There are newspapers controlled by people outside of the editorial rooms, and a good many of them, more's the pity; but the people exercising that control are not the business men who pay their money for advertising space. The newspapers which are established for political purposes are often controlled by chronic officeseekers, whose first concern is their own interests. There are newspapers controlled by great corporations, and the voice of such newspapers is always raised in protest against any genuine reform.

The average western newspaper usually is controlled by its owner, and he is supposed to be in duty bound to make all sorts of sacrifices at all sorts of times; there are people who consider it his duty to insult his advertisers, just to show that he is free and independent. If he shows a decent respect for his patrons, who pay him their money, and make it possible for him to carry on the business, he is "subsidized" or "controlled." The newspaper owner is a business man, like the dry goods man or the grocer. The merchants are expected to have consideration for their customers, and they are not supposed to be subsidized by the man who spends five dollars with them, but the publisher is expected to demonstrate his courage by showing that he is ungrateful for the patronage of his friends. It is a funny combination when you think it over.—Emporia Gazette.

What's the Answer?

We're ready to quit! After sending two perfectly rhymed, carefully scanned, pleasurably sentimental pieces of poetic junk to seventeen magazines and having them returned seventeen times, we turn to the current issue of a new monthy and find a "pome" modeled after Kipling's "Vampire," and in which home is supposed to rhyme with alone, run on page eleven with all the swell curlycues ordinarily surrounding a piece of real art. If poetizing is a gift we are convinced that this poet's must have been. As for us, we are on our way to the woodshed to study the psychology of the ax or any other old thing that hasn't to do with selling poetry to magazines.

ROOSEVELT RETURNS AND IS GIVEN AN OVATION SELDOM EQUALED

The Mighty Traveler Goes Buoyantly Through a Long and Trying Reception-Parade, Showing Lively Interest in Everything American

The White Company Receives Unique Compliment for the Sturdy Reliability of Its Steam Car From Mr. Roosevelt and Family

Theodore Roosevelt and Party in White Steamer.)

After fifteen months' absence, exactly as scheduled, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt disembarked from the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, Saturday morning, June 18, at 11 a. m. To the keen disappointment of a large group of newspaper correspondents, Mr. Roosevelt absolutely refused, as heretofore, to be interviewed or to talk on political subjects, but his rapid fire of questions showed the same virile interest in public affairs as before.

If the welcome tendered by the vast throng may be considered a criterion upon which to base a "return from Elba," surely there was no discordant note in the immense reception-parade, nor in the wildly clamorous crowd which cheered at every glimpse and hung on his very word.

The incidents of the day in New York were many, but perhaps none better illustrated the nervous energy and vitality of the man, the near-mania to be up-and-doing, which he has brought back to us, than the discarding of horses and carriages for the swifter and more reliable automobiles. The moment the Roosevelt family and immediate party landed, they were whisked away in White Steamers to the home of Mrs. Douglas Robinson at 433 Fifth avenue. A little later, when the procession reached the corner of Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, Colonel Roosevelt again showed his preference for the motor car in general and the White cars in particular, when he, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Collector Loeb transferred from their carriage to White Steamers, which were in waiting for them.

After luncheon at Mr. Robinson's house, the entire party, including Colonel Roosevelt, again entered White cars and were driven to Long Island City, where they were to take a special train to the ex-President's home at Oyster Bay.

The supremacy of the White cars with the Roosevelt party was again demonstrated on Sunday, when the party was driven to church in the White Steamers, and a group of some forty prominent Rough Riders were taken in a White Gasoline Truck to a clambake at the Travers Island clubhouse of the New York Athletic Club.

How delicious were the pies of boyhood. No pies now ever taste so good. What's changed? the pies? No. It's you. You've lost the strong, healthy stomach, the vigorous liver, the active kidneys, the regular bowels of boyhood. Your digestion is poor and you blame the food. What's needed? A complete toning up by Electric Bitters of all organs of digestion—stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels—Try them. They'll restore your foyhood appetite and appreciation of bood and fairly saturate your body with new health, strength and vigor, 50c at J. H. Swan's.

HIS PLATFORM

"I favor the economical expenditure of public monies and the immediate abolition of old time extravagant methods. I favor laws that will be beneficial for the farmers, dairymen and stock-raisers of this great commonwealth, the municipal control of gas, electric and water systems, the establishment of good roads and an economical system of expenditure for their permanent maintenance, convict labor to be used aa far as possible. I favor the passage of laws that protect the members of fraternal insurance organization, against the encroachments of powerful old line insurance companies. In am opposed to any deap weterway legislation by this state until such time as the Federal Government assures its financial support of the project. I am for the rigid enforcement of laws governing the practice of medicine and surgery, and the enactment of such laws as will protect the people against unscrupulous practitioners. I believe there should be just and equitable measures of protection to employer and employee, the conservation of all our national resources, the encouragement, support and advancement of all our public, educational and charitable institutions, in order that they may be placed on the highest plane of efficiency."

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Maynard Pianos and Player-Pianos

At Antioch

During the next two or three weeks you can see and hear these fine pianos at

Mr. George E. Webb's New Store

Mr. O. Doederlein of the R. K. Maynard Piano Co. is here to demonstrate the superiority of the well known artistic Maynard pianos, and for the purpose of introducing them in this territory will offer a limited number for sale at greatly reduced prices.

These are not so-called "stencil" or "commercial" pianos, made to sell and not to last. The Maynard piano is the result of years of study and experiment in the development of the art for art's sake, and long after the "commercial" piano has ceased to please, the Maynard piano will still prove sweet, and pure, and beautiful.

Don't Fail to Hear the Maynard Player-Piano

Thousands of pianos have become mere articles of furniture. Few persons only play the piano well, and then only but few pieces.

Our PLAYER-PIANO has replaced the "silent instrument" and made it possible for everyone to produce the finest musical selections and enjoy a repertoire of unlimited variety. No previous knowledge of music is required to enable you to render in a faultless style any kind of music desired, whether it be classic, operatic, popular song, dance music or the simple home melodies.

Come try it, play it and be convinced

If you have a "silent" piano, don't fail to see us

REMEMBER--A Maynard Art Piano at specially reduced price during this sale only
